Former Fellow Teachers To Be at Convocation

Chance Unites Wm. Vitarelli and J. A. Michener, From 10,000 Distance

Special to Courier

GEORGE SCHOOL, Oct. 23—Chance brings together here tomorrow a famous author and prominent U. S. education administrator, once fellow teachers at this Friends boarding school and neighbors, now 10,000 miles apart.

William Vitarelli, U. S. education administrator for the Caroline Islands in the Pacific, was announced today as the latest member of a panel discussion on "Can Education Promote Greater Harmony Among Peoples?"—part of the George School Convocation of October 24-26. He joins his old friend James A. Michener, South Pacific author. He replaces Charles C. Price of South Bend, Indiana. He also joins Ruth Weir Miller, executive director of the World Affairs Council of Philadelphia, and Mexican Herberto Sein, who works at the U. N. Some 1,000 will hear Jonathan Daniels, Pearl S. Buck and other major addresses and will share in three panel discussions on Saturday.

"Vit" and "Jim" taught art and English, respectively, here more than a decade ago. When Michener built his modern home on a Bucks County bluff 20 miles from George School, Vitarelli was a designer and actually did much of the building, along with assorted faculty members from the school.

"I don't promise to agree with everything that's said on Saturday afternoon," Vitarelli remarked here yesterday. "My experience both in the U. S. and the Pacific has been that people need to know first how to use their hands, not have their heads crammed full of random knowledge."

The educator, who holds a Ph. D. from Columbia University and who owns an Erwinna, Bucks County, home when he is in the U. S., is scheduled to leave on Sunday morning with his family on the long journey back to Yap, Truk, Ulithi, etc. He is starting a second two-year term as top educator for the natives of 40 islands mandated to the U. S.

Editorial

MR. BARD IS CLEARLY UNFIT

Guy K. Bard, backed by the Democratic Party of Pennsylvania for the U. S. Senate, is clearly unfit for that job and unworthy of the high honor.

His one great claim to fame is that he used outrageous and highhanded methods delaying and preventing official investigation of corruption in the Little New Deal at Harrisburg in 1938. These scandals were virtually identical with the improprieties at Washington which have become one of the major issues of this campaign.

Philadelphia's noisy Mr. Dilworth has called Bard a "liberal" who is "really concerned with the problems of his fellow citizen."

But the facts are that Bard received one of the most scathing rebukes any Pennsylvania official ever got, for turning his back on the problems of the public which he had taken oath to attend to, and for devoting his full energies to entirely contrary interests—those of public servants trying to escape an accounting.

Who says all this?

Mainly, the Pennsylvania Supreme Court.

Turn to Vol. 332, Pa. Supreme Court, and read the story for yourself, if you are tempted to think these assertions are just so much "campaign talk."

You will find it set forth that Bard sought powers "so illimitable as to be beyond judicial review" as a means of trying to keep his official friends from being investigated. The quoted passage is directly from the majority opinion rebuking him. Further in the same majority opinion you find this comment on his conduct in office:

> "To permit him (Bard) to conduct the investigation (of the Earl Administration, at that time accused by leading Democrats of gross scandals and under investigation by a Grand Jury) in such a case WOULD BE CONTRARY TO ALL STANDARDS OF PROFESSIONAL ETHICS."

Lest you think, because there was a majority and a minority opinion, that some of the Court took Bard's side, please note that the minority was dissatisfied, not because the majority was too tough on Bard, but because it wasn't tough enough!

Anyone who has any lingering doubts about the incompetency of Mr. Bard to do justice to the job of U. S. Senate at a

Wall Street Journal Predicts Eisenhower

New York—The Wall Street Journal said today that "it is better than an even bet" that Republican candidate Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will be the next president. The financial newspaper cautioned however—"certainly the signs pointing to an Eisenhower victory are not strong enough for a flat prediction. A lot can happen between now and Nov. 4—any attempt to fathom the leanings of 55 million voters has to hazard a few assumptions, some of them risky. The greatest risk of all is people who say they're for Ike might switch to Adlai in the voting booth. But even that danger is not overwhelming. Studies made after the 1948 election suggest that most voters stuck to their original favorites—Truman won by corralling a larger-than-expected share of the "undecided folks".

The distraught father attempted to enter the burning building to rescue the children. Witnesses said seven men were required to restrain him.

Motorists, don't be in the dark about children's safety on the streets. Early darkness during the fall and winter months requires your special watchfulness for children. Youngsters may be returning home from school — or riding their bicycles during these hours of early dusk — or playing in or near the street. They may not realize the extra hazards of poor visibility. Be sure that YOU do. You may be doing a friendly deed for your own children if you raise your alertness and lower your speed.

Industrial Leaders Told of Chest Drive By U. S. Steel Official

Ross L. Leffler Says He is "Definitely Sold" on Company Participation

Ross L. Leffler, assistant to the vice-president in charge of operations of the U. S. steel company told directors and guests of the Bucks County United Services Federation at a luncheon meeting at Pennsbury Inn yesterday afternoon, that he had come to the lunucheon as a man "definitely sold" on company participation in such community drives as that which is to be sponsored by the USF.

Leffler was guest speaker at the luncheon which was given by the USF for executives of Bucks County industrial plants employing 25 persons or more. Frederick J. Rarig, campaign chairman, Harold N. Crooker, chairman of the Industry and Commerce Division of the campaign, and Clyde J. Waterman, president of the USF spoke briefly.

Leffler, addressing the group of nearly 50 leaders of Bucks county industry, explained that years ago, when communities were small and one member of a community knew another, when calamity fell, a neighbor or group of neighbors were ready to come to one's aid. Now, said Leffler we live in communities where some men do not even know the names of their next-door neighbors.

When it comes to helping out in times of distress, Leffler said, today we have to look to the social agencies in our communities to do it for us. and we must support these agencies, he told the gathering.

He explained that from an industrial relations standpoint it was better to have one campaign, than sporadic campaigns throughout the year. He said that when his company had instituted a "one-time" drive through its plants the results were much better than had previously been the case.

Rarig spoke of the work that had been done to organize the drive on a countrywide basis. He said that the directors of the campaign had decided not to limit the campaign to a particuluar part of the county but should strive to make it a county-wide campaign "to solve what are truly county-wide problems."

He said the need of the organiza-

Former Fellow Teachers To Be at Convocation

Chance Unites Wm. Vitarelli and J. A. Michener, From 10,000 Distance

Special to Courier

GEORGE SCHOOL, Oct. 23 — Chance brings together here tomorrow a famous author and prominent U. S. education administrator, once fellow teachers at this Friends boarding school and neighbors, now 10,000 miles apart.

William Vitarelli, U. S. education administrator for the Caroline Islands in the Pacific, was announced today as the latest member of a panel discussion on "Can Education Promote Greater Harmony Among Peoples?"—part of the George School Convocation of October 24-26. He joins his old friend James A. Michener, South Pacific author. He replaces Charles C. Price of South Bend, Indiana. He also joins Ruth Weir Miller, executive director of the World Affairs Council of Philadelphia, and Mexican Herberto Sein, who works at the U. N. Some 1,000 will hear Jonathan Daniels, Pearl S. Buck and other major addresses and will share in three panel discussions on Saturday.

"Vit" and "Jim" taught art and English, respectively, here more than a decade ago. When Michener built his modern home on a Bucks County bluff 20 miles from George School, Vitarelli was a designer and actually did much of the building, along with assorted faculty members from the school.

"I don't promise to agree with everything that's said on Saturday afternoon," Vitarelli remarked here yesterday. "My experience both in the U. S. and the Pacific has been that people need to know first how to use their hands, not have their heads crammed full of random knowledge."

The educator, who holds a Ph. D. from Columbia University and who owns an Erwinna, Bucks County, home when he is in the U. S., is scheduled to leave on Sunday morning with his family on the long journey back to Yap, Truk, Ulithi, etc. He is starting a second two-year term as top educator for the natives of 40 islands mandated to the U. S.

Editorial

MR. BARD IS CLEARLY UNFIT

Guy K. Bard, backed by the Democratic Party of Pennsylvania for the U. S. Senate, is clearly unfit for that job and unworthy of the high honor.

His one great claim to fame is that he used outrageous and highhanded methods delaying and preventing official investigation of corruption in the Little New Deal at Harrisburg in 1938. These scandals were virtually identical with the improprieties at Washington which have become one of the major issues of this campaign.

Philadelphia's noisy Mr. Dilworth has called Bard a "liberal" who is "really concerned with the problems of his fellow citizen."

But the facts are that Bard received one of the most scathing rebukes any Pennsylvania official ever got, for turning his back on the problems of the public which he had taken oath to attend to, and for devoting his full energies to entirely contrary interests—those of public servants trying to escape an accounting.

Who says all this?

Mainly, the Pennsylvania Supreme Court.

Turn to Vol. 332, Pa. Supreme Court, and read the story for yourself, if you are tempted to think these assertions are just so much "campaign talk."

You will find it set forth that Bard sought powers "so illimitable as to be beyond judicial review" as a means of trying to keep his official friends from being investigated. The quoted passage is directly from the majority opinion rebuking him. Further in the same majority opinion you find this comment on his conduct in office:

> "To permit him (Bard) to conduct the investigation (of the Earl Administration, at that time accused by leading Democrats of gross scandals and under investigation by a Grand Jury) in such a case WOULD BE CONTRARY TO ALL STANDARDS OF PROFESSIONAL ETHICS."

Lest you think, because there was a majority and a minority opinion, that some of the Court took Bard's side, please note that the minority was dissatisfied, not because the majority was too tough on Bard, but because it wasn't tough enough!

Anyone who has any lingering doubts about the incompetency of Mr. Bard to do justice to the job of U. S. Senate at a

John W. Franks, recently appointed full time secretary of the Bristol - Lower Bucks Chamber of Commerce, discussed his organization and aspects of business promotions, and made a favorable impression on the merchants. Wall Street Journal Predicts Eisenhower

New York—The Wall Street Journal said today that "it is better than an even bet" that Republican candidate Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will be the next president. The financial newspaper cautioned however—"certainly the signs pointing to an Eisenhower victory are not strong enough for a flat prediction. A lot can happen between now and Nov. 4—any attempt to fathom the leanings of 55 million voters has to hazard a few assumptions, some of them risky. The greatest risk of all is people who say they're for Ike might switch to Adlai in the voting booth. But even that danger is not overwhelming. Studies made after the 1948 election suggest that most voters stuck to their original favorites—Truman won by corralling a larger-than-expected share of the "undecided folks".

The baby was in fair condition. The other children were almost certainly trapped in the flaming inferno which left only ashes of the house which Smith had built himself. The State Police Say:

Motorists, don't be in the dark about children's safety on the streets. Early darkness during the fall and winter months requires your special watchfulness for children. Youngsters may be returning home from school — or riding their bicycles during these hours of early dusk — or playing in or near the street. They may not realize the extra hazards of poor visibility. Be sure that YOU do. You may be doing a friendly deed for your own children if you raise your alertness and lower your speed.

Industrial Leaders Told of Chest Drive By U. S. Steel Official

Ross L. Leffler Says He is "Definitely Sold" on Company Participation

Ross L. Leffler, assistant to the vice-president in charge of operations of the U. S. steel company told directors and guests of the Bucks County United Services Federation at a luncheon meeting at Pennsbury Inn yesterday afternoon, that he had come to the lunucheon as a man "definitely sold" on company participation in such community drives as that which is to be sponsored by the USF.

Leffler was guest speaker at the luncheon which was given by the USF for executives of Bucks County industrial plants employing 25 persons or more. Frederick J. Rarig, campaign chairman, Harold N. Crooker, chairman of the Industry and Commerce Division of the campaign, and Clyde J. Waterman, president of the USF spoke briefly.

Leffler, addressing the group of nearly 50 leaders of Bucks county industry, explained that years ago, when communities were small and one member of a community knew another, when calamity fell, a neighbor or group of neighbors were ready to come to one's aid. Now, said Leffler we live in communities where some men do not even know the names of their next-door neighbors.

When it comes to helping out in times of distress, Leffler said, today we have to look to the social agencies in our communities to do it for us, and we must support these agencies, he told the gathering.

He explained that from an industrial relations standpoint it was better to have one campaign, than sporadic campaigns throughout the year. He said that when his company had instituted a "one-time" drive through its plants the results were much better than had previously been the case.

Rarig spoke of the work that had been done to organize the drive on a countrywide basis. He said that the directors of the campaign had decided not to limit the campaign to a particuluar part of the county but should strive to make it a county-wide campaign "to solve what are truly county-wide problems."

He said the need of the organiza-

MECHANICAL HEART

Three months after the mechanical heart pinch-hit for a living man's heart, the Journal of the American Medical Association felt justified in printing the story. The 41-year-old is "alive and well" today.

It was back in early July that for nearly an hour the motor-driven device perfected by General Motors engineers took over the work of one side of the natural heart, detouring blood from lungs to arteries. For 14 minutes the surgeons of Harpers Hospital, Detroit, had the patient's heart open, while they repaired a valve left enlarged and leaky after rheumatic fever.

They sewed up the heart, disconnected the machine, sewed up the chest. Changeovers were gradual, not sudden. The man's heart kept beating through it all, whether pumping or not.

Dramatic heart surgery is, of course, nothing new. Heart surgery has been making big strides recently. Mechanical hearts have kept dogs alive with the dogs' own hearts completely removed. But the Detroit achievement with a human being is called a "milestone in medicine."

The possibilities for the extension of human life by use of the invention seem great. For one thing, henceforth it will often be practical to give the heart a rest when it needs a rest.

Conservative in their predictions, the surgeons say it is not yet fully known how much the patient benefited by the operation. It's certain that the science of heart surgery has leaped ahead. At hand is a new tool for the battle against that leading killer—heart disease. Years of research, of teamwork between doctors and engineers, have paid a big dividend.

There are 1,200 overlapping bureaus in Washington, D. C., it is estimated, in addition to overlapping thoughts such as those expressed from day to day by Gen. Bedell Smith.

President Truman says he cannot play "The Missouri Waltz". But, brother, does he know the tax tune, in all its variations.

More and more government groups are being cloaked with authority. The impression prevails that most of them got a poor fit.

MECHANICAL HEART

Three months after the mechanical heart pinch-hit for a living man's heart, the Journal of the American Medical Association felt justified in printing the story. The 41-year-old is "alive and well" today.

It was back in early July that for nearly an hour the motor-driven device perfected by General Motors engineers took over the work of one side of the natural heart, detouring blood from lungs to arteries. For 14 minutes the surgeons of Harpers Hospital, Detroit, had the patient's heart open, while they repaired a valve left enlarged and leaky after rheumatic fever.

They sewed up the heart, disconnected the machine, sewed up the chest. Changeovers were gradual, not sudden. The man's heart kept beating through it all, whether pumping or not.

Dramatic heart surgery is, of course, nothing new. Heart surgery has been making big strides recently. Mechanical hearts have kept dogs alive with the dogs' own hearts completely removed. But the Detroit achievement with a human being is called a "milestone in medicine."

The possibilities for the extension of human life by use of the invention seem great. For one thing, henceforth it will often be practical to give the heart a rest when it needs a rest.

Conservative in their predictions, the surgeons say it is not yet fully known how much the patient benefited by the operation. It's certain that the science of heart surgery has leaped ahead. At hand is a new tool for the battle against that leading killer—heart disease. Years of research, of teamwork between doctors and engineers, have paid a big dividend.

There are 1,200 overlapping bureaus in Washington, D. C., it is estimated, in addition to overlapping thoughts such as those expressed from day to day by Gen. Bedell Smith.

President Truman says he cannot play "The Missouri Waltz". But, brother, does he know the tax tune, in all its variations.

More and more government groups are being cloaked with authority. The impression prevails that most of them got a poor fit.

Noted Columnist

ton R .Leedom; Yardley, Mrs. W. M. Scott.

Ivan H. (Cy) Peterman will be the featured speaker at the county-wide "Citizens for Eisenhower-Nixon Rally" at the Edgely Fire Hall on Saturday evening, November 1st, at eight o'clock. Peterman has 15 years of major news writing behind him. Now a nationally known columnist, Peterman saw World War II. from D-Day to V-Day, from Elgiers to the Elbe. Wounded at El Guettar, twice decorated, he rode a jeep into battle; one of only half a dozen reporters who saw all European - Mediterranean campaigns and emerged with eight battle stars on his theatre ribbons. He covered three D-Day actions—Sicily, Salerno and Normandy — and won two top journalistic awards for his work.

His experience has brought him into personal contact with Eisenhower, the general, and Stevenson, the governor. He will analyze the two presidential candidates in the light of his associations with them.

Other speakers at the rally will be: the Hon. Karl C. King, member of Congress from Bucks and Lehigh counties, on "Liberty;" the Rev. Robert L. Curry, Bucks County chairman of Citizens for Eisenhower - Nixon," the invocation; James Hackett, president of the Bucks County Young Republicans, "The Youth of America;" Mrs. Ann Hawkes Hutton, author and lecturer, "The Issue of Patriotism."

The musical program, under the direction of Andrew MacArthur, will feature the outstanding soloist, Mrs. Alice C. Berger, an experienced radio performer who has made a number of recordings. Critics have proclaimed her singing of the Star Spangled Banner as one of the finest renditions ever heard, it is stated. She will be accompanied on the piano by her husband, Lt. Colonel Arthur Berger, head of the music department at State Teachers College, Trenton, N. J.

Refreshments will be served and group singing enjoyed with Miss Hilda MacArthur at the piano.

Noted Columnist

ton R .Leedom; Yardley, Mrs. W. M. Scott.

Ivan H. (Cy) Peterman will be the featured speaker at the county-wide "Citizens for Eisenhower-Nixon Rally" at the Edgely Fire Hall on Saturday evening, November 1st, at eight o'clock. Peterman has 15 years of major news writing behind him. Now a nationally known columnist, Peterman saw World War II. from D-Day to V-Day, from Elgiers to the Elbe. Wounded at El Guettar, twice decorated, he rode a jeep into battle; one of only half a dozen reporters who saw all European - Mediterranean campaigns and emerged with eight battle stars on his theatre ribbons. He covered three D-Day actions—Sicily, Salerno and Normandy — and won two top journalistic awards for his work.

His experience has brought him into personal contact with Eisenhower, the general, and Stevenson, the governor. He will analyze the two presidential candidates in the light of his associations with them.

Other speakers at the rally will be: the Hon. Karl C. King, member of Congress from Bucks and Lehigh counties, on "Liberty;" the Rev. Robert L. Curry, Bucks County chairman of Citizens for Eisenhower - Nixon," the invocation; James Hackett, president of the Bucks County Young Republicans, "The Youth of America;" Mrs. Ann Hawkes Hutton, author and lecturer, "The Issue of Patriotism."

The musical program, under the direction of Andrew MacArthur, will feature the outstanding soloist, Mrs. Alice C. Berger, an experienced radio performer who has made a number of recordings. Critics have proclaimed her singing of the Star Spangled Banner as one of the finest renditions ever heard, it is stated. She will be accompanied on the piano by her husband, Lt. Colonel Arthur Berger, head of the music department at State Teachers College, Trenton, N. J.

Refreshments will be served and group singing enjoyed with Miss Hilda MacArthur at the piano.

Cruise is Culmination of Penna. Week Observance

A unique culmination to Penna. Week, "A Salute to the Port of Philadelphia," sponsored by the Women's Committee, was the cruise up the Delaware River on Saturday, Oct. 18th, aboard the M. V. "Delaware Belle."

The boat proceeded from Phila. to Fairless Works, U. S. Steel Co., to acquaint the women with the important offerings of the Port of Philadelphia which plays a large part in making Penna. such a great state.

A special feature of the trip was a memorial ceremony at Pennsbury Manor. A wreath was cast upon the water and prayers offered by Dr. Percy R. Stockman, superintendent, Seaman's Church Institute. Col. Walter Krueger, Jr., U. S. district engineer, explained plans for the proposed 40-ft. channel at designated points en route Master of ceremonies J. Alex Crothers, and representatives of the larger firms along both sides of the river described the industries. Representatives of some of the larger Bucks county firms and those on the New Jersey shore spoke. Among them were: Rohm & Haas Co., M. K. Longenberger; Publicker Industries, Inc., Ray Crist; Burlington Bridge, Fred Norcross; Paterson Parchment Paper Co., Walter Richter; The Warner Co., Irving Warner, Jr.; U .S. Steel plant, H. E. Warren, Jr.

The opening and closing of the Pennsylvania R. R. bridge and the Tacony - Palmyra Bridge was of special interest. Mr. Norcross stated that the Bristol - Burlington bridge was the fastest traffic drawing bridge in the country because of the industrial development of the section.

On the return trip a buffet luncheon was served with a musical background supplied by Philadelphia Police and Firemen's Bands and the Quaker City String Band. As the boat neared the end of the trip there was a spectacular display of water pumping by the three Phila. fireboats.

Bucks County Federation of Women's Clubs was represented by Mrs. Walter W. Robson, Jr.

INGENUITY MAKES ATHLETIC PAYOFF

By International News Service

GRANVILLE, O. — (INS)—Karl F. Rees, inventive Denison University football trainer, didn't let the small Ohio college's limited budget stop him when he wanted a whirlpool bath for his grid charges' muscle miseries. A discarded stock watering tank, $2.50 worth of assorted pipes and faucets and Rees' own ingenuity produced an efficient whirlpool. Similar baths cost $275 and up on the current market.

Daily Bath Is a Beauty Aid

Every beauty starts her day with a bath or shower. After-tub treatment calls for patting on some fragrant talcum.

By HELEN FOLLETT

DAILY bathing is necessary to the woman who wishes to be dainty and make the most of her beauty. With all the delightful bath toiletries that are to be had, the morning tubbing is a pleasant period of relaxation, fits one for the day's activities. Bath salts soften the water, make the renovating session thorough, impart a pleasing fragrance that will remain for hours. They also provide one way to cut down on the perfume budget.

Bathing may be used for its stimulating or sedative effect as well as for cleansing. An alternating hot and cold shower puts one on one's toes and, as it has a rousing effect on circulation, is a help to little Miss Pale Face and the woman who laments because she has a sallow complexion. Tepid baths are soothing to jumping nerves, take the weariness out of one's bones. The demon tubber may find it a good idea to have a warm water scrubbing with soap and a heavy brush at bedtime, a cold shower in the morning. Of course the sort of bath a woman takes depends somewhat on her health and her needs.

Soak and Scrub

For hygienic results, it is a good plan to rest in warm water for several minutes before your scrubbing. This soaking loosens dead skin cells to which perspiration clings. Then the brush clears them away. This should be the daily practice of the victim of the baneful B. O., who should also apply a deodorant.

Dry the skin surface with a coarse towel that takes hold like the pangs of a guilty conscience. A rousing friction will give you energy. Then, you can select a toiletry to be used for a secondary rubdown. You may prefer a bath lotion to bring a glow. If your skin is dry, inclined to be itchy, you will find special bath oils at cosmetic counters that will allay the irritation.

Talcum, palmed into the flesh, is effective, too. Choose a pleasantly scented one, and use plenty of it.

Preschool Child Too Young To Memorize Arithmetic Facts

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

SOME while ago in this column, I gave in part my answer to a mother who asked whether it would be wise to have her child, four years old, memorize the basic addition facts, since the youngster had such a keen interest in numbers. My answer was no. I wrote this mother it would be better to divert the child's attention toward coloring, drawing, pasting and doing various other things with his hands; also to listening to stories and to having normal fun with other children of his age. A reader disagreed. Here is part of her letter.

"Dear Dr. Myers: Here, here, you are getting me all confused! For years we've been told over and over that the time to teach a child any given thing is when he evinces a desire to learn it. So now you say that if a child wants to learn to add, try to distract his attention by reading to him or having him cut and paste.

School Problems Artificial

"And am I funny or are you? So a preschool child will forget addition facts because she wouldn't have the opportunity of using them in 'real' problems. Do you mean school problems are the real ones? I thought school problems were artificial problems thought up to use in teaching. Real problems, it seems to me, are the ones encountered outside of school. Like: 'Bring me the eggs for breakfast. Janie. Daddy wants three, Jimmie two, and I want one.'"

My reply, in part: You have raised a vital issue. Accumulated studies do point strongly to the principle that the child learns best when he is most ready by his development and interest to learn—to walk, talk, feed himself, dress himself and the like. His interest and success depend on his whole development in the widest sense.

But interest at the moment can't always be a safe guide. At five or six a youngster might be very much interested in starting and operating a car, yet we hardly would teach him so early to drive a car.

Limitations as Guide

When it comes to book skills and knowledge, the principle of interest as the sole guide has many limitations. In the instance of the child three or four who wants to learn to spell, read or add, his lack of adequate coordination, especially of the eyes, would mean physical strain. His mastery so early of book skills and knowledge would lessen his interest in normal activities best suited to his age and development as a whole.

The number example you gave surely could be a real one. But such would hardly warrant having him learn by heart the basic addition facts. Would problems like your example normally confront the preschool child often enough to keep him from forgetting these combinations if he had memorized them?

NEWS OF SCHOOLS IN AREA---

All public, private and parochial schools in the Bristol area are invited to send news items for publication in this column which appears frequently.

Delhaas High School

Bucks County Industrial Arts and Vocational Teachers Ass'n held a meeting at Delhaas high school Oct. 15. The following were present: Bartley Elfman, Gerald Detweiler, Robert Gerhart, Doylestown high school; Bernard Hartz, Thomas Walsh, Bristol high school; Clarence Lubbe, Malcolm MacFarlan, Delhaas; and Thomas Green, Pennsbury. Plans were discussed for programs of future meetings. Bernard Hartz, Bristol high, extended an invitation to the group for the November 12th meeting. On the agenda for this meeting will be election of officers. Nominations will be made from the floor.

A new faculty organization at Delhaas is the administration council, composed of the principal, guidance director, student council sponsor and the department heads.

This council was formed to advise the principal upon matters and policies in administration of the high school and upon operation of the scholastic program, as well as upon pupil growth within the school. The group meets upon call of the principal or when requested by two members.

The number of Delhaas teachers has been increasing so rapidly in the last few years that some liason was needed between teachers and administration; this council meets that need.

At the first meeting, held recently, the council discussed the planning necessary for making the change-over in the schedule when the four-room addition is completed. At that time, planned for the last of November, the 10th graders will be placed on full time with the 11th graders. As a result, pupils, teachers and classes will have to be shifted. Various members of the council suggested possible solutions to the problem.

The council consists of Henry B. Decker, principal; Miss Edna M. Pennypacker, guidance director; and the following department heads; Stanley Dick, physical education and assistant principal; Miss M. Cruise is Culmination of Penna. Week Observance

A unique culmination to Penna. Week, "A Salute to the Port of Philadelphia," sponsored by the Women's Committee, was the cruise up the Delaware River on Saturday, Oct. 18th, aboard the M. V. "Delaware Belle."

The boat proceeded from Phila. to Fairless Works, U. S. Steel Co., to acquaint the women with the important offerings of the Port of Philadelphia which plays a large part in making Penna. such a great state.

A special feature of the trip was a memorial ceremony at Pennsbury Manor. A wreath was cast upon the water and prayers offered by Dr. Percy R. Stockman, superintendent, Seaman's Church Institute. Col. Walter Krueger, Jr., U. S. district engineer, explained plans for the proposed 40-ft. channel at designated points en route Master of ceremonies J. Alex Crothers, and representatives of the larger firms along both sides of the river described the industries. Representatives of some of the larger Bucks county firms and those on the New Jersey shore spoke. Among them were: Rohm & Haas Co., M. K. Longenberger; Publicker Industries, Inc., Ray Crist; Burlington Bridge, Fred Norcross; Paterson Parchment Paper Co., Walter Richter; The Warner Co., Irving Warner, Jr.; U .S. Steel plant, H. E. Warren, Jr.

The opening and closing of the Pennsylvania R. R. bridge and the Tacony - Palmyra Bridge was of special interest. Mr. Norcross stated that the Bristol - Burlington bridge was the fastest traffic drawing bridge in the country because of the industrial development of the section.

On the return trip a buffet luncheon was served with a musical background supplied by Philadelphia Police and Firemen's Bands and the Quaker City String Band. As the boat neared the end of the trip there was a spectacular display of water pumping by the three Phila. fireboats.

Bucks County Federation of Women's Clubs was represented by Mrs. Walter W. Robson, Jr.

GRANVILLE, O. — (INS)—Karl F. Rees, inventive Denison University football trainer, didn't let the small Ohio college's limited budget stop him when he wanted a whirlpool bath for his grid charges' muscle miseries. A discarded stock watering tank, $2.50 worth of assorted pipes and faucets and Rees' own ingenuity produced an efficient whirlpool. Similar baths cost $275 and up on the current market.

By HELEN FOLLETT

DAILY bathing is necessary to the woman who wishes to be dainty and make the most of her beauty. With all the delightful bath toiletries that are to be had, the morning tubbing is a pleasant period of relaxation, fits one for the day's activities. Bath salts soften the water, make the renovating session thorough, impart a pleasing fragrance that will remain for hours. They also provide one way to cut down on the perfume budget.

Bathing may be used for its stimulating or sedative effect as well as for cleansing. An alternating hot and cold shower puts one on one's toes and, as it has a rousing effect on circulation, is a help to little Miss Pale Face and the woman who laments because she has a sallow complexion. Tepid baths are soothing to jumping nerves, take the weariness out of one's bones. The demon tubber may find it a good idea to have a warm water scrubbing with soap and a heavy brush at bedtime, a cold shower in the morning. Of course the sort of bath a woman takes depends somewhat on her health and her needs.

Soak and Scrub

For hygienic results, it is a good plan to rest in warm water for several minutes before your scrubbing. This soaking loosens dead skin cells to which perspiration clings. Then the brush clears them away. This should be the daily practice of the victim of the baneful B. O., who should also apply a deodorant.

Dry the skin surface with a coarse towel that takes hold like the pangs of a guilty conscience. A rousing friction will give you energy. Then, you can select a toiletry to be used for a secondary rubdown. You may prefer a bath lotion to bring a glow. If your skin is dry, inclined to be itchy, you will find special bath oils at cosmetic counters that will allay the irritation.

Talcum, palmed into the flesh, is effective, too. Choose a pleasantly scented one, and use plenty of it.

Preschool Child Too Young To Memorize Arithmetic Facts

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

SOME while ago in this column, I gave in part my answer to a mother who asked whether it would be wise to have her child, four years old, memorize the basic addition facts, since the youngster had such a keen interest in numbers. My answer was no. I wrote this mother it would be better to divert the child's attention toward coloring, drawing, pasting and doing various other things with his hands; also to listening to stories and to having normal fun with other children of his age. A reader disagreed. Here is part of her letter.

"Dear Dr. Myers: Here, here, you are getting me all confused! For years we've been told over and over that the time to teach a child any given thing is when he evinces a desire to learn it. So now you say that if a child wants to learn to add, try to distract his attention by reading to him or having him cut and paste.

School Problems Artificial

"And am I funny or are you? So a preschool child will forget addition facts because she wouldn't have the opportunity of using them in 'real' problems. Do you mean school problems are the real ones? I thought school problems were artificial problems thought up to use in teaching. Real problems, it seems to me, are the ones encountered outside of school. Like: 'Bring me the eggs for breakfast. Janie. Daddy wants three, Jimmie two, and I want one.'"

My reply, in part: You have raised a vital issue. Accumulated studies do point strongly to the principle that the child learns best when he is most ready by his development and interest to learn—to walk, talk, feed himself, dress himself and the like. His interest and success depend on his whole development in the widest sense.

But interest at the moment can't always be a safe guide. At five or six a youngster might be very much interested in starting and operating a car, yet we hardly would teach him so early to drive a car.

Limitations as Guide

When it comes to book skills and knowledge, the principle of interest as the sole guide has many limitations. In the instance of the child three or four who wants to learn to spell, read or add, his lack of adequate coordination, especially of the eyes, would mean physical strain. His mastery so early of book skills and knowledge would lessen his interest in normal activities best suited to his age and development as a whole.

The number example you gave surely could be a real one. But such would hardly warrant having him learn by heart the basic addition facts. Would problems like your example normally confront the preschool child often enough to keep him from forgetting these combinations if he had memorized them?

NEWS OF SCHOOLS IN AREA---

All public, private and parochial schools in the Bristol area are invited to send news items for publication in this column which appears frequently.

Delhaas High School

Bucks County Industrial Arts and Vocational Teachers Ass'n held a meeting at Delhaas high school Oct. 15. The following were present: Bartley Elfman, Gerald Detweiler, Robert Gerhart, Doylestown high school; Bernard Hartz, Thomas Walsh, Bristol high school; Clarence Lubbe, Malcolm MacFarlan, Delhaas; and Thomas Green, Pennsbury. Plans were discussed for programs of future meetings. Bernard Hartz, Bristol high, extended an invitation to the group for the November 12th meeting. On the agenda for this meeting will be election of officers. Nominations will be made from the floor.

A new faculty organization at Delhaas is the administration council, composed of the principal, guidance director, student council sponsor and the department heads.

This council was formed to advise the principal upon matters and policies in administration of the high school and upon operation of the scholastic program, as well as upon pupil growth within the school. The group meets upon call of the principal or when requested by two members.

The number of Delhaas teachers has been increasing so rapidly in the last few years that some liason was needed between teachers and administration; this council meets that need.

At the first meeting, held recently, the council discussed the planning necessary for making the change-over in the schedule when the four-room addition is completed. At that time, planned for the last of November, the 10th graders will be placed on full time with the 11th graders. As a result, pupils, teachers and classes will have to be shifted. Various members of the council suggested possible solutions to the problem.

The council consists of Henry B. Decker, principal; Miss Edna M. Pennypacker, guidance director; and the following department heads; Stanley Dick, physical education and assistant principal; Miss M. Ivy Foley, social studies; Thomas Jenkins, mathematics and student council sponsor; James S. Ritter, science; and J. E. Sparks, English.

Bristol High Will Be Underdog When It Meets Neshaminy

Bristol High will be the underdog tomorrow night as it meets the fast going Neshaminy High team on the local gridiron. Open kickoff is scheduled for 8.30 o'clock. It will be a Lower Bucks County League tilt.

Under the guidance of Coach Harry Franks, Neshaminy has been going at a fast pace since it lost its opening game to Ambler. Since the Ambler defeat, Neshaminy has copped four straight contests, three of them Lower Bucks County League games.

The Neshaminy opponents have only scored 20 points since Ambler registered 27. The Redskins have pushed over 127 points since the first game. The Neshaminy record for the season is four wins and one loss. It has scored 134 points to its foes' 45. In League competition, Coach Franks' minions have beaten Pennsbury, Morrisville, and Council Rock.

Outstanding in the Neshaminy lineup is the passing combinations of "Lon" Maurer to Furman Lex and Maurer to Al Hofmann. Maurer has turned out to be one of the best pass-throwers in Lower Bucks and is hitting his mark quite frequently. His passes have accounted for many Neshaminy touchdowns.

Coach "Chick" D'Angelo is well aware of the prowess of Maurer and his mates and during practice sessions this week devoted much time to the sharpening of the Bristol pass defense. The Warriors must be able to stop the Neshaminy air attack to entertain hopes of a triumph.

Bristol must beat Neshaminy in order to retain its Lower Bucks championship. The Warriors have lost one league contest to Pennsbury and two defeats at this stage would prove disastrous. Bristol's record to date is two wins and three losses. Its last two games have resulted in triumphs over Council Rock and Southampton, both conference games. The Warriors have scored 57 points in the last two games.

Coach D'Angelo was well pleased with the showing of his forward line against Southampton and feels that with the same charging against Neshaminy may pull an upset and send the Lower Bucks County race into a wild scramble among Bristol, Neshaminy, Morrisville, and Pennsbury.

It is most likely that Coach D'Angelo will start: Ends, Dave Lewis and Fred Kornstedt; tackles, Tom Brescia and Ed Charlton; guards, Buddy Rago and Ed Conca; center, Russ Johnson; backs, Gene Dugan, Sid Taylor, Roland Davis, and Larry Cohen. Frank Manzo, center, who pulled a muscle in the game against Hamilton High, may return to action.

Council Rock High will be playing a non-league game tomorrow afternoon as it meets Bordentown Manual Jayvees on the latter's field. Last season, Council Rock scored a 31-6 win over the boys of Coach Charlie Ray.

Delhaas High will also be in Bordentown tomorrow afternoon meeting Coach Jim Callery's Bordentown High eleven. Coach John Antoni's squad has won its last three games, beating Bordentown Manual Jayvees on two occasions and then triumphing over George School Jayvees. Council Rock beat Delhaas in the seasons' opener.

SAVE MEAT BY PROPER ROASTING

Are you roasting meat correctly? If not, then you're making it less palatable and even wasting meat, says the well-known meat cookery expert, Reba Staggs.

The important "must" in roasting is that you use a low temperature. Too often meat is cooked rapidly with the result of loss of flavor and loss of meat. For beef, veal, lamb and cured pork use a 300 degree F. temperature. A 350 degree F. oven is recommended for fresh pork.

Here's how to place the meat in your oven. Arrange the roast with the fat side up on a rack in an open roasting pan. The rack holds the meat up off the bottom of the pan with the result that air can circulate around it. You'll solve the problem of serving meat at the degree of doneness desired if you use a roast meat thermometer. Before placing the roast in the oven, insert the thermometer into the meat so that the bulb rests in the thickest muscle, but not in fat or on bone. Remove the roast when the thermometer registers the degree of doneness desired.

Rack Is Used

time when corruption in Washington is an issue ought to read very carefully all of the following from the minority opinion:

"If . . . an attack is to be made upon the disinterestedness of the District Attorney of Dauphin County (investigating the Harrisburg scandals) it should not be made by the Attorney General (Bard) in his official capacity, because for him to do so naturally gives rise to the belief that he may be using the powers and prestige of the office he holds as a public trust to secure the removal from these proceedings of the very District Attorney by whom the conduct of this proposed investigation the public interest may imperatively require.

"It does not well lie in the mouth of the Attorney General—a subordinate of one of the officials to be investigated—to attempt to secure the District Attorney's removal from this case.

"The Attorney General's attempt to eliminate from this investigation the duly elected District Attorney of Dauphin County naturally gives rise to a suspicion that his action is not in the public interest, which is the only interest to which the Attorney General holds fidelity.

"Since the Attorney General is admittedly not disinterested as between the Commonwealth, whose servant he is, and the Governor, whose appointee he is and by whom he can be removed he should not be permitted to appear officially and challenge the District Attorney's qualifications to proceed with this investigation.

"For him to do this is as completely improper as it would be for him to do so were he himself under investigation or under indictment.

"THE OBVIOUS CONFLICT BETWEEN HIS LOYALTY TO HIS CHIEF MAKES HIS PARTICIPATION IN ANY STAGE OF THIS CASE OFFENSIVE TO THE CANONS OF PROFESSIONAL ETHICS AND OF GOOD TASTE."

That's the official estimate of Bard's attitude towards public responsibility, put on everlasting record as part of an official document of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court.

What had Bard done? That's a pertinent question if there is any thought of his going to Washington, for hundreds of Mr. Truman's little playmates badly need exactly the sort of service which Bard gave the New Dealers in Harrisburg.

Bard succeeded Margiotti as Attorney General. The latter had been fired for not surrendering evidence in his possession to the very group supposedly incriminated by it—Governor Earle and his cabinet.

Bard then set out to get his fingers on this evidence, and to head off a grand jury investigation which the Pennsylvania Supreme Court put in the hands of an outstanding Democratic jurist, President Judge Paul N. Schaeffer of Reading.

Unsuccessful at every turn, Bard had recourse to a line of approach just about as brazen and audacious as anything ever attempted. A special session of the Legislator (tight under the thumb of the Earle Administration) was summoned and a set of so-called "immunity laws" was jammed through to head off any and all grand jury investigations, and give Bard complete control of any already under way.

Bard as attorney general officially approved these laws before they were submitted to the legislature (if indeed he did not write them) and he approved them again before the Governor signed them. They made it a matter of his "absolute discretion" whether to interfere with grand jury investigations or not, which is the power which the majority of the Supreme Court condemned as being "illimitable." The minority opinion dealt with it in far harsher terms.

The effect of Bard's official conduct in this matter was, first, to delay the proper investigation of the Earle regime from May, 1938, when the probe began, until after the November election, when since the public had resoundingly repudiated the Little New Deal anyway, the subject became a moot issue in politics.

Were the Democratic state officials really guilty of the offenses of which other Democratic party leaders accused them?

Probably no agreement will ever be reached on that question. One cabinet officer was convicted and sent to prison—the Secretary of Highways. The Democratic State Chairman was tried and acquitted. Several small fry were found guilty.

But for those who may think that the whole tale of scandals which Bard did so much to keep hidden was just a political pipe dream, perhaps it is worth while to tell a little story, which is amply verified by official records.

One of the main groups which was indicted but got away Scot-free consisted of some forty or fifty Democrats in Luzerne County who eventually, partly due to Bard's delaying tactics, escaped under the statute of limitations.

Their case is very significant. The official records of the Commonwealth show that by election day of 1938 the State Highway Department funds has been squandered and pilfered so grossly that there was an overdraft in Luzerne County at that time of $1,043,000!

These records show also that THE GREAT BULK OF THIS MISAPPROPRIATION OCCURRED AFTER BARD GOT HIS IMMUNITY LAWS PASSED AND THE DEMOCRATS THUS BELIEVED THEY COULD GET AWAY WITH ANYTHING!

How do we know that this money was corruptly mishandled?

If by no other means, by at least one spectacularly simple one:

LITERALLY HUNDREDS OF PERSONS IN LUZERNE COUNTY MADE RESTITUTION AND SIGNED AFFIDAVITS SAYING THAT THE "PAY-CHECKS" THEY RECEIVED WERE GIVEN THEM AS BRIBES FOR POLITICAL SUPPORT, AND THAT THEY HAD NEVER DONE A STROKE OF WORK FOR THE HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT WHICH PUT THEM DOWN AS EMPLOYEES!

That was only one county out of the sixty-seven, and in one State Department alone more than a million dollars was stolen and squandered and spent corruptly for political bribes.

THAT IS THE SORT OF SCANDAL BARD FOUGHT SO HARD TO COVER UP BACK IN 1938!

THAT IS WHY WE SAY HE IS UNFIT AND UNWORTHY OF THE HIGH POSITION OF U. S. SENATOR!

IT WOULD BE TRAGIC TO REPLACE A FINE, PATRIOTIC, HONORABLE MAN LIKE SENATOR MARTIN, WHOSE INTEGRITY IN OFFICE HAS NEVER BEEN QUESTIONED—AND REPLACE HIM WITH A MAN LIKE BARD!

CUT THE COST OF OPERATING AN ELECTRIC RANGE

By Frances Vannoy
Home Economics
Extension Representative

Observe a few simple precautions and you will cut operation and maintenance costs of your electric range.

Here are a few things to keep in mind: Do not overheat, for overheating shortens the life of the unit and also wastes heat.

Do not use the units without a cooking load. One exception to this is the brief period needed to preheat the oven. Put the utensils on the unit, then turn switch to cooking heat desired. As soon as cooking begins, turn to lowest heat needed for desired temperature.

Keep reflector parts clean and bright. Soiled reflector pans absorb heat instead of reflecting it to utensils. If you keep aluminum foil in the reflector pan, be sure to make holes in it the same size as ones in the reflector pan. Clean oven surfaces radiate heat better than greasy ones; rough surfaces absorb radiant heat instead of reflecting it. Wipe the oven after each use with a damp cloth, using either synthetic detergent or soap, and you will keep grease from collecting.

Here are some suggestions to save heat: Adjust the oven shelves before starting the oven to preheat. Set a timer to remind you when preheating; turn unit to "off" position before removing food. Most ovens have enough stored heat to continue the cooking 10 to 15 minutes. On top units make use of the lower heats and "off" position to finish cooking foods. If your range has an automatic time control, use it as often as possible.

Bristol High Will Be Underdog When It Meets Neshaminy

Bristol High will be the underdog tomorrow night as it meets the fast going Neshaminy High team on the local gridiron. Open kickoff is scheduled for 8.30 o'clock. It will be a Lower Bucks County League tilt. Under the guidance of Coach Harry Franks, Neshaminy has been going at a fast pace since it lost its opening game to Ambler. Since the Ambler defeat, Neshaminy has copped four straight contests, three of them Lower Bucks County League games.

The Neshaminy opponents have only scored 20 points since Ambler registered 27. The Redskins have rolled over 127 points since the Ambler game. The Neshaminy record for the season is four wins and one loss. It has scored 134 points to its opponents' 46. In League competition, Coach Franks' minions have beaten Pennsbury, Morrisville, and Council Rock.

Outstanding in the Neshaminy group is the passing combinations of "Lee" Maurer to Furman Lex and Maurer to Al Hofmann. Maurer has turned out to be one of the best ball-throwers in Lower Bucks and is getting his mark quite frequently. His passes have accounted for many Neshaminy touchdowns.

Coach "Chick" D'Angelo is well aware of the prowess of Maurer and his mates and during practice sessions this week devoted much time to the sharpening of the Bristol pass defense. The Warriors must be able to stop the Neshaminy air attack to entertain hopes of a triumph.

Bristol must beat Neshaminy in order to retain its Lower Bucks championship. The Warriors have lost one league contest to Pennsbury and two defeats at this stage would prove disastrous. Bristol's record to date is two wins and two losses. Its last two games have resulted in triumphs over Council Rock and Southampton, both conference games. The Warriors have scored 57 points in the last two games.

Coach D'Angelo was well pleased with the showing of his forward wall against Southampton and feels that with the same charging against Neshaminy may pull an upset and put the Lower Bucks County race into a wild scramble among Bristol, Neshaminy, Morrisville, and Pennsbury.

It is most likely that Coach D'Angelo will start: Ends, Dave Lewis and Fred Kornstedt; tackles, Tom Breccia and Ed Charlton; guards, Buddy Rago and Ed Conca; center, Russ Johnson; backs, Gene Dugan, Sid Taylor, Roland Davis, and Larry Cohen. Frank Manzo, center, who pulled a muscle in the game against Hamilton High, may return to action.

Council Rock High will be playing a non-league game tomorrow afternoon as it meets Bordentown Manual Jayvees on the latter's field. Last season, Council Rock scored a 21-6 win over the boys of Coach Charlie Ray.

Delhaas High will also be in Bordentown tomorrow afternoon meeting Coach Jim Callery's Bordentown High eleven. Coach John Antoni's squad has won its last three games, beating Bordentown Manual Jayvees on two occasions and then triumphing over George School Jayvees. Council Rock beat Delhaas in the seasons' opener.

Observe a few simple precautions and you will cut operation and maintenance costs of your electric range.

Here are a few things to keep in mind: Do not overheat, for overheating shortens the life of the unit and also wastes heat.

Do not use the units without a cooking load. One exception to this is the brief period needed to preheat the oven. Put the utensils on the unit, then turn switch to cooking heat desired. As soon as cooking begins, turn to lowest heat needed for desired temperature.

Keep reflector parts clean and bright. Soiled reflector pans absorb heat instead of reflecting it to utensils. If you keep aluminum foil in the reflector pan, be sure to make holes in it the same size as ones in the reflector pan. Clean oven surfaces radiate heat better than greasy ones; rough surfaces absorb radiant heat instead of reflecting it. Wipe the oven after each use with a damp cloth, using either synthetic detergent or soap, and you will keep grease from collecting.

Here are some suggestions to save heat: Adjust the oven shelves before starting the oven to preheat. Set a timer to remind you when preheating; turn unit to "off" position before removing food. Most ovens have enough stored heat to continue the cooking 10 to 15 minutes. On top units make use of the lower heats and "off" position to finish cooking foods. If your range has an automatic time control, use it as often as possible.

Boy Scout Council Plans for Jamboree

Special Committee Named To Work Out Details For Big Event in July

"On to the Pacific" is the rallying call that will bring 50,000 Boy Scouts, Explorers and their leaders from all parts of the nation to the Third National Jamboree to be held in a 3-000-acre "tent city" in the Newport Harbor Area in California next July 10-16.

The Irvine Ranch, one of the few remaining old land-holdings in Southern California that began in the old land-grant system of the Spanish-Mexican days, is lending the site for what will be the largest boys' encampment in the world.

To make certain that every eligible Scout and Explorer is given an opportunity to participate, the Bucks County Council, Boy Scouts of America, has selected a special Jamboree Committee. The Council administers the Boy Scout program in Bucks County and a portion of New Jersey.

George Hobensack, president of the Bucks County Council, announced the selection of Donald VanArtsdalen of Doylestown, Assistant District Attorney, as Chairman.

Jamboree participation is open to members at least 12 years old as of Jan. 1, 1953, of Second Class Scout, Explorer Apprentice or higher rank. Each must have adequate camping experience to enable him to care for himself in the open and a co-operative attitude toward his fellow Scouts and leaders.

The National Jamboree is an object lesson to all participants, teaching them to pay their own way as a means of developing self-reliance and self-support. Each Scout and Explorer will pay his own expenses, although deserving Scouts will undoubtedly be aided by their Troop, by the Troop's sponsoring institution and also by service clubs, fraternal, business, civic and labor organizations. In most instances Scouts will earn funds by spare time jobs, by collecting and selling scrap metal and waste paper. Some will represent home town newspapers and radio stations as correspondents.

The huge Jamboree Camp will be financed by a Jamboree fee paid by each Jamboree camper. The Federal Government, following Congresional action and Presidential approval will lend the Scouts some equipment, without expense to the nation's taxpayers.

The two previous National Jamborees were held in the East. In 1937 at the invitation of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, 27,232 Scouts and leaders camped within the shadow of the Washington Monument, occupying 350 acres on both sides of the Potomac River. Among the Jamboree campers were 400 Scouts of 24 other nations.

A new generation of Scouts and leaders camped together at Historic Valley Forge, Pa., in 1950 occupying 625 acres of the 2,033-acre Valley Forge Park loaned by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. The Bucks County Council had a contingent of 78 Scouts, Explorers and Leaders at this Jamboree, the largest encampment of youth in the Western Hemisphere.

It is estimated that the 50,000 Scouts at the California Jamboree will occupy 800 acres of the 3,000-acre site. The Bucks County Council has set a goal of 76 Scouts, Explorers, and Leaders for the forthcoming Jamboree.

Bristol High Will Be Underdog When It Meets Neshaminy

Bristol High will be the underdog tomorrow night as it meets the fast moving Neshaminy High team on the local gridiron. Open kickoff is scheduled for 8.30 o'clock. It will be a Lower Bucks County League tilt. Under the guidance of Coach Jerry Franks, Neshaminy has been going at a fast pace since it lost its opening game to Ambler. Since the Ambler defeat, Neshaminy has copped four straight contests, three of them Lower Bucks County League tilts.

The Neshaminy opponents have scored 20 points since Ambler whitewashed 27. The Redskins have rolled over 127 points since the Ambler game. The Neshaminy record for the season is four wins and one defeat. It has scored 134 points to its opponents' 46. In League competition, Coach Franks' minions have beaten Tullytown, Morrisville, and Council Rock.

Outstanding in the Neshaminy attack is the passing combinations of "Lex" Maurer to Furman Lex Maurer to Al Hofmann. Maurer has turned out to be one of the best passthrowers in Lower Bucks and is getting his mark quite frequently. His passes have accounted for many Neshaminy touchdowns.

Coach "Chick" D'Angelo is well pleased of the prowess of Maurer and his mates and during practice sessions this week devoted much time to the sharpening of the Bristol pass defense. The Warriors must be able to stop the Neshaminy air attack to entertain hopes of a triumph.

Bristol must beat Neshaminy in order to retain its Lower Bucks championship. The Warriors have won one league contest to Pennsbury and two defeats at this stage would prove disastrous. Bristol's record to date is two wins and two losses. Its last two games have resulted in triumphs over Council Rock and Southampton, both conference games. The Warriors have scored 57 points in the last two games.

Coach D'Angelo was well pleased with the showing of his forward wall against Southampton and feels that with the same charging against Neshaminy may pull an upset and give the Lower Bucks County race a wild scramble among Bristol, Neshaminy, Morrisville, and Pennsbury.

It is most likely that Coach D'Angelo will start: Ends, Dave Lewis and Fred Kornstedt; tackles, Tom Breccia and Ed Charlton; guards, Buddy Rago and Ed Conca; center, Russ Johnson; backs, Gene Dugan, Sid Taylor, Roland Davis, and Larry Cohen. Frank Manzo, center, who pulled a muscle in the game against Hamilton High, may return to action.

Council Rock High will be playing a non-league game tomorrow afternoon as it meets Bordentown Manual Jayvees on the latter's field. Last season, Council Rock scored a 21-6 win over the boys of Coach Charlie Ray.

Delhaas High will also be in Bordentown tomorrow afternoon meeting Coach Jim Callery's Bordentown High eleven. Coach John Antal's squad has won its last three games, beating Bordentown Manual Jayvees on two occasions and then triumphing over George School Jayvees. Council Rock beat Delhaas in the seasons' opener.

SAVE MEAT BY PROPER ROASTING

Are you roasting meat correctly? If not, then you're making it less palatable and even wasting meat, says the well-known meat cookery expert, Reba Staggs.

The important "must" in roasting is that you use a low temperature. Too often meat is cooked rapidly with the result of loss of flavor and loss of meat. For beef, veal, lamb and cured pork use a 300 degree F. temperature. A 350 degree F. oven is recommended for fresh pork.

Here's how to place the meat in your oven. Arrange the roast with the fat side up on a rack in an open roasting pan. The rack holds the meat up off the bottom of the pan with the result that air can circulate around it. You'll solve the problem of serving meat at the degree of doneness desired if you use a roast meat thermometer. Before placing the roast in the oven, insert the thermometer into the meat so that the bulb rests in the thickest muscle, but not in fat or on bone. Remove the roast when the thermometer registers the degree of doneness desired.

Rack Is Used

In roasting meat use a rack in the roasting pan. This keeps the meat up off the bottom of the pan and permits air to circulate around it.

Mr. Bard is Clearly Unfit

time when corruption in Washington is an issue ought to read very carefully all of the following from the minority opinion:

"If . . . an attack is to be made upon the disinterestedness of the District Attorney of Dauphin County (investigating the Harrisburg scandals) it should not be made by the Attorney General (Bard) in his official capacity, because for him to do so naturally gives rise to the belief that he may be using the powers and prestige of the office he holds as a public trust to secure the removal from these proceedings of the very District Attorney by whom the conduct of this proposed investigation the public interest may imperatively require.

"It does not well lie in the mouth of the Attorney General—a subordinate of one of the officials to be investigated—to attempt to secure the District Attorney's removal from this case.

"The Attorney General's attempt to eliminate from this investigation the duly elected District Attorney of Dauphin County naturally gives rise to a suspicion that his action is not in the public interest, which is the only interest to which the Attorney General holds fidelity.

"Since the Attorney General is admittedly not disinterested as between the Commonwealth, whose servant he is, and the Governor, whose appointee he is and by whom he can be removed he should not be permitted to appear officially and challenge the District Attorney's qualifications to proceed with this investigation.

"For him to do this is as completely improper as it would be for him to do so were he himself under investigation or under indictment.

"THE OBVIOUS CONFLICT BETWEEN HIS LOYALTY TO HIS CHIEF MAKES HIS PARTICIPATION IN ANY STAGE OF THIS CASE OFFENSIVE TO THE CANONS OF PROFESSIONAL ETHICS AND OF GOOD TASTE."

That's the official estimate of Bard's attitude towards public responsibility, put on everlasting record as part of an official document of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court.

What had Bard done? That's a pertinent question if there is any thought of his going to Washington, for hundreds of Mr. Truman's little playmates badly need exactly the sort of service which Bard gave the New Dealers in Harrisburg.

Bard succeeded Margiotti as Attorney General. The latter had been fired for not surrendering evidence in his possession to the very group supposedly incriminated by it—Governor Earle and his cabinet.

Bard then set out to get his fingers on this evidence, and to head off a grand jury investigation which the Pennsylvania Supreme Court put in the hands of an outstanding Democratic jurist, President Judge Paul N. Schaeffer of Reading.

Unsuccessful at every turn, Bard had recourse to a line of approach just about as brazen and audacious as anything ever attempted. A special session of the Legislator (tight under the thumb of the Earle Administration) was summoned and a set of so-called "immunity laws" was jammed through to head off any and all grand jury investigations, and give Bard complete control of any already under way.

Bard as attorney general officially approved these laws before they were submitted to the legislature (if indeed he did not write them) and he approved them again before the Governor signed them. They made it a matter of his "absolute discretion" whether to interfere with grand jury investigations or not, which is the power which the majority of the Supreme Court condemned as being "illimitable." The minority opinion dealt with it in far harsher terms.

The effect of Bard's official conduct in this matter was, first, to delay the proper investigation of the Earle regime from May, 1938, when the probe began, until after the November election, when since the public had resoundingly repudiated the Little New Deal anyway, the subject became a moot issue in politics.

Were the Democratic state officials really guilty of the offenses of which other Democratic party leaders accused them?

Probably no agreement will ever be reached on that question. One cabinet officer was convicted and sent to prison—the Secretary of Highways. The Democratic State Chairman was tried and acquitted. Several small fry were found guilty.

But for those who may think that the whole tale of scandals which Bard did so much to keep hidden was just a political pipe dream, perhaps it is worth while to tell a little story, which is amply verified by official records.

One of the main groups which was indicted but got away Scot-free consisted of some forty or fifty Democrats in Luzerne County who eventually, partly due to Bard's delaying tactics, escaped under the statute of limitations.

Their case is very significant. The official records of the Commonwealth show that by election day of 1938 the State Highway Department funds has been squandered and pilfered so grossly that there was an overdraft in Luzerne County at that time of $1,043,000!

These records show also that THE GREAT BULK OF THIS MISAPPROPRIATION OCCURRED AFTER BARD GOT HIS IMMUNITY LAWS PASSED AND THE DEMOCRATS THUS BELIEVED THEY COULD GET AWAY WITH ANYTHING!

How do we know that this money was corruptly mishandled?

If by no other means, by at least one spectacularly simple one:

LITERALLY HUNDREDS OF PERSONS IN LUZERNE COUNTY MADE RESTITUTION AND SIGNED AFFIDAVITS SAYING THAT THE "PAY-CHECKS" THEY RECEIVED WERE GIVEN THEM AS BRIBES FOR POLITICAL SUPPORT, AND THAT THEY HAD NEVER DONE A STROKE OF WORK FOR THE HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT WHICH PUT THEM DOWN AS EMPLOYEES!

That was only one county out of the sixty-seven, and in one State Department alone more than a million dollars was stolen and squandered and spent corruptly for political bribes.

THAT IS THE SORT OF SCANDAL BARD FOUGHT SO HARD TO COVER UP BACK IN 1938!

THAT IS WHY WE SAY HE IS UNFIT AND UNWORTHY OF THE HIGH POSITION OF U. S. SENATOR!

IT WOULD BE TRAGIC TO REPLACE A FINE, PATRIOTIC, HONORABLE MAN LIKE SENATOR MARTIN, WHOSE INTEGRITY IN OFFICE HAS NEVER BEEN QUESTIONED—AND REPLACE HIM WITH A MAN LIKE BARD!

Industrial Leaders

tion was for young men to serve as area chairmen. He emphasized that in the drive "hard-headed business tactics" should be used, and as examples he listed the "payroll deduction" and the "pledge card".

Rarig stressed that the campaign must be an "industry-labor" drive with each group contributing its share to the total effort toward a successful campaign.

Waterman told the gathering that what had been done so far in the campaign was a result of nine months of concentrated effort on the part of the directors. He asked those present to contribute their efforts in the drive.

The directors will meet with plant supervisory personnel and with labor leaders who will actually operate the campaign, next Monday at 6.30 p. m., at Pennsbury Inn. At that time plans will be made for the actual operation of the campaign which begins Nov. 10 and lasts until Nov. 25.

CUT THE COST OF OPERATING AN ELECTRIC RANGE

By Frances Vannoy
Home Economics
Extension Representative

Observe a few simple precautions and you will cut operation and maintenance costs of your electric range.

Here are a few things to keep in mind: Do not overheat, for overheating shortens the life of the unit and also wastes heat.

Do not use the units without a cooking load. One exception to this is the brief period needed to preheat the oven. Put the utensils on the unit, then turn switch to cooking heat desired. As soon as cooking begins, turn to lowest heat needed for desired temperature.

Keep reflector parts clean and bright. Soiled reflector pans absorb heat instead of reflecting it to utensils. If you keep aluminum foil in the reflector pan, be sure to make holes in it the same size as ones in the reflector pan. Clean oven surfaces radiate heat better than greasy ones; rough surfaces absorb radiant heat instead of reflecting it. Wipe the oven after each use with a damp cloth, using either synthetic detergent or soap, and you will keep grease from collecting.

Here are some suggestions to save heat: Adjust the oven shelves before starting the oven to preheat. Set a timer to remind you when preheating; turn unit to "off" position before removing food. Most ovens have enough stored heat to continue the cooking 10 to 15 minutes. On top units make use of the lower heats and "off" position to finish cooking foods. If your range has an automatic time control, use it as often as possible.

Young Republicans Hold Very Successful Rally

Congressman Karl C. King Foresees New Era in G.O.P. Party In Lower Bucks

FALLSINGTON, Oct. 23 — Bucks County Young Republican Club held a successful rally in Fallsington Library Hall, Friday evening. William Anderson, Morrisville, acting as chairman, introduced State Senator Edward B. Watson, Assemblyman Marvin Keller, Bucks County Republican Chairman A. Harry Clayton, and Young Republican Chairman James Hackett. Mr. Hackett spoke on the importance of this election to young people.

Congressman Karl C. King, of the Bucks-Lehigh District, said that he sees a new era in the Republican Party in Lower Bucks County. Under the present administration the burden of heavy taxation has largely destroyed the opportunity of advancement for the youth of today.

Mrs. Hannah Durham, Lehigh County, the principal speaker, cited the three enemies of America: (1) The enemy from Without—Russia—whose one aim, since Lenin, has been world conquest. Do we want to give a vote of confidence to an administration whose Secretary of State involves us in a war he does not dare win? (2) the enemy from within—Poor government, for which we are paying heavily. Do we want our President at a critical time, when our Ambassador has been sent home by Russia, spending his time, and ours, whistle-stopping in a campaign in which he is not even a candidate? (3) Complacency—In '48 the Republican vote in Bucks County was only 82% of registration. We must have Pennsylvania in the Republican column to elect Eisenhower. Our opponents claim to have given everything that is good, but twenty-five Republican governors have made Pennsylvania one of our great states. Mrs. Durham took a whack at Stevenson as a wisecracking Truman stooge and said that Sparkman, who is one breath away from the presidency, if elected, comes from one of the narrow states and would be unable to deliver unbiased government to our nation.

A number of original campaign songs, by a group from Falls Township, closed the enthusiastic meeting.

Boy Scout Council Plans for Jamboree

Special Committee Named To Work Out Details For Big Event in July

"On to the Pacific" is the rallying call that will bring 50,000 Boy Scouts, Explorers and their leaders from all parts of the nation to the Third National Jamboree to be held in a 3-000-acre "tent city" in the Newport Harbor Area in California next July 10-16.

The Irvine Ranch, one of the few remaining old land-holdings in Southern California that began in the old land-grant system of the Spanish-Mexican days, is lending the site for what will be the largest boys' encampment in the world.

To make certain that every eligible Scout and Explorer is given an opportunity to participate, the Bucks County Council, Boy Scouts of America, has selected a special Jamboree Committee. The Council administers the Boy Scout program in Bucks County and a portion of New Jersey.

George Hobensack, president of the Bucks County Council, announced the selection of Donald VanArtsdalen of Doylestown, Assistant District Attorney, as Chairman.

Jamboree participation is open to members at least 12 years old as of Jan. 1, 1953, of Second Class Scout, Explorer Apprentice or higher rank. Each must have adequate camping experience to enable him to care for himself in the open and a co-operative attitude toward his fellow Scouts and leaders.

The National Jamboree is an object lesson to all participants, teaching them to pay their own way as a means of developing self-reliance and self-support. Each Scout and Explorer will pay his own expenses, although deserving Scouts will undoubtedly be aided by their Troop, by the Troop's sponsoring institution and also by service clubs, fraternal, business, civic and labor organizations. In most instances Scouts will earn funds by spare time jobs, by collecting and selling scrap metal and waste paper. Some will represent home town newspapers and radio stations as correspondents.

The huge Jamboree Camp will be financed by a Jamboree fee paid by each Jamboree camper. The Federal Government, following Congresional action and Presidential approval will lend the Scouts some equipment, without expense to the nation's taxpayers.

The two previous National Jamborees were held in the East. In 1937 at the invitation of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, 27,232 Scouts and leaders camped within the shadow of the Washington Monument, occupying 350 acres on both sides of the Potomac River. Among the Jamboree campers were 400 Scouts of 24 other nations.

A new generation of Scouts and leaders camped together at Historic Valley Forge, Pa., in 1950 occupying 625 acres of the 2,033-acre Valley Forge Park loaned by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. The Bucks County Council had a contingent of 78 Scouts, Explorers and Leaders at this Jamboree, the largest encampment of youth in the Western Hemisphere.

It is estimated that the 50,000 Scouts at the California Jamboree will occupy 800 acres of the 3,000-acre site. The Bucks County Council has set a goal of 76 Scouts, Explorers, and Leaders for the forthcoming Jamboree.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

New Light On Stevenson

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23—Recently many complaints have been heard that the presidential campaign is being conducted on a very low plane. That there is sound foundation for these complaints is generally agreed. There is also general agreement as to whose fault it is. On both sides responsibility is assigned to the President of the United States, who has been campaigning in a way no President in memory ever campaigned before.

—o—

No President and no presidential candidate who can be recalled in American politics ever descended to the demagogic level upon which Mr. Truman operated on his first "whistle-stop" tour of the country. Nor has any ever matched him either in the vulgarity of his language or the utter recklessness with which he has disregarded the truth. Unquestionably he has aroused disgust among many citizens in all parts of the country.

—o—

The idea that this reckless mud slinging in his behalf was disturbing to Governor Stevenson, who has so often proclaimed his pure purpose to appeal only to reason and avoid all distortion of fact, has been discarded since one of his chief journalistic friends let it be known that Mr. Stevenson had telephoned Mr. Truman from his train, profusely expressing his admiration and gratitude, urging him to continue "pouring it on," indicating that money would be found for another such trip on which Mr. Truman would be provided a national radio hookup.

—o—

This sheds a rather new light on Mr. Stevenson, who, in his virtuous way and despite his "appeal to reason," has been criticizing General Ike for his support of all Republican candidates, including Senators McCarthy, Kem and Jenner; also alleging (though he must know better) that the General had "surrendered" to Senator Taft and was being dictated to by him. It now seems that if there has been a "surrender" it is that of Mr. Stevenson to Mr. Truman. A few weeks ago those who accurately reflect the Governor's views were vociferously pointing out that he has no desire to run on the Truman record, was not in full accord with all the Truman policies and was distressed by the "mess" in Washington, which he pledged himself to clean up.

—o—

Taking note of these widely published statements, Mr. Truman trucculently let it be known at a White House press conference — first, that he knowns of no "mess" in Washington; second, that Stevenson and Sparkman have got to run on the Truman record; third, that he is the "key figure" in the campaign. Then, without any enthusiasm at all from Mr. Stevenson or the Stevenson management, he started out on his tour. He finishes a second one today and is preparing for a third before the campaign ends. Now veracious reporters traveling with Governor Stevenson declare that he has not only developed a considerable degree of enthusiasm for the Truman tour and is now pleased to run on the Truman record and accept the Truman policies but, in addition, has forgotten all about the "mess" in Washington and is not likely to mention it again.

—o—

If from the start Govenor Stevenson had not assumed a position of such unmitigated nobility these contradictions and inconsistencies might be ascribed to the ordinary exigencies of practical politics. But in view of his caustic criticism of his opponent for exactly the same sort of thing that he himself is doing, it does seem that there is a considerable tinge of hypocrisy about the Stevenson performance and that he is neither as noble nor as candid as he asserts. The fact is the virtuous Adlai has always seemed a little too good to be true, and his apparently complete "surrender" to the President in the matter of the "mess" in Washington is rather convincing proof.

—o—

As to whether Mr. Truman's travel tirades are making or losing votes for Governor Stevenson it is impossible to say. Certainly he has had large and pleased crowds wherever he has spoken. Certainly, too, he has changed the campaign from what appeared to be a more than usually dignified debate into something with all the earmarks of a brawl. There are two views of the effect upon the electorate. One is that the coarse and undiluated partisanship of the President's speeches have disgusted many voters who might have gone for Stevenson but who resent what they regard as the degradation of the presidency and feel now that the only way to get rid of Trumanism, with its flagrant venality and corruption, is to elect Eisenhower and Nixon. The other view is that the American people really like the way Mr. Truman "dishes it out." They have no real taste for "appeals to reason," do not want their politics on a high plane, do not want the truth. Those who think this believe Mr. Truman is making votes for the Governor and that the latter is wise to come down off his high horse, ignore the facts, forget the "mess" in Washington and help Mr. Truman hit Ike with everything he can put his hands on.

Young Republicans Hold Very Successful Rally

Congressman Karl C. King Foresees New Era in G.O.P. Party In Lower Bucks

FALLSINGTON, Oct. 23 — Bucks County Young Republican Club held a successful rally in Fallsington Library Hall, Friday evening. William Anderson, Morrisville, acting as chairman, introduced State Senator Edward B. Watson, Assemblyman Marvin Keller, Bucks County Republican Chairman A. Harry Clayton, and Young Republican Chairman James Hackett. Mr. Hackett spoke on the importance of this election to young people.

Congressman Karl C. King, of the Bucks-Lehigh District, said that he sees a new era in the Republican Party in Lower Bucks County. Under the present administration the burden of heavy taxation has largely destroyed the opportunity of advancement for the youth of today.

Mrs. Hannah Durham, Lehigh County, the principal speaker, cited the three enemies of America: (1) The enemy from Without—Russia—whose one aim, since Lenin, has been world conquest. Do we want to give a vote of confidence to an administration whose Secretary of State involves us in a war he does not dare win? (2) the enemy from within—Poor government, for which we are paying heavily. Do we want our President at a critical time, when our Ambassador has been sent home by Russia, spending his time, and ours, whistle-stopping in a campaign in which he is not even a candidate? (3) Complacency—In '48 the Republican vote in Bucks County was only 82% of registration. We must have Pennsylvania in the Republican column to elect Eisenhower. Our opponents claim to have given everything that is good, but twenty-five Republican governors have made Pennsylvania one of our great states. Mrs. Durham took a whack at Stevenson as a wisecracking Truman stooge and said that Sparkman, who is one breath away from the presidency, if elected, comes from one of the narrow states and would be unable to deliver unbiased government to our nation.

A number of original campaign songs, by a group from Falls Township, closed the enthusiastic meeting.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

New Light On Stevenson

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23—

Recently many complaints have been heard that the presidential campaign is being conducted on a very low plane. That there is sound foundation for these complaints is generally agreed. There is also general agreement as to whose fault it is. On both sides responsibility is assigned to the President of the United States, who has been campaigning in a way no President in memory ever campaigned before.

—o—

No President and no presidential candidate who can be recalled in American politics ever descended to the demagogic level upon which Mr. Truman operated on his first "whistle-stop" tour of the country. Nor has any ever matched him either in the vulgarity of his language or the utter recklessness with which he has disregarded the truth. Unquestionably he has aroused disgust among many citizens in all parts of the country.

—o—

The idea that this reckless mud slinging in his behalf was disturbing to Governor Stevenson, who has so often proclaimed his pure purpose to appeal only to reason and avoid all distortion of fact, has been discarded since one of his chief journalistic friends let it be known that Mr. Stevenson had telephoned Mr. Truman from his train, profusely expressing his admiration and gratitude, urging him to continue "pouring it on," indicating that money would be found for another such trip on which Mr. Truman would be provided a national radio hookup.

—o—

This sheds a rather new light on Mr. Stevenson, who, in his virtuous way and despite his "appeal to reason," has been criticizing General Ike for his support of all Republican candidates, including Senators McCarthy, Kem and Jenner; also alleging (though he must know better) that the General had "surrendered" to Senator Taft and was being dictated to by him. It now seems that if there has been a "surrender" it is that of Mr. Stevenson to Mr. Truman. A few weeks ago those who accurately reflect the Governor's views were vociferously pointing out that he has no desire to run on the Truman record, was not in full accord with all the Truman policies and was distressed by the "mess" in Washington, which he pledged himself to clean up.

—o—

Taking note of these widely published statements, Mr. Truman truculently let it be known at a White House press conference — first, that he knowns of no "mess" in Washington; second, that Stevenson and Sparkman have got to run on the Truman record; third, that he is the "key figure" in the campaign. Then, without any enthusiasm at all from Mr. Stevenson or the Stevenson management, he started out on his tour. He finishes a second one today and is preparing for a third before the campaign ends. Now veracious reporters traveling with Governor Stevenson declare that he has not only developed a considerable degree of enthusiasm for the Truman tour and is now pleased to run on the Truman record and accept the Truman policies but, in addition, has forgotten all about the "mess" in Washington and is not likely to mention it again.

—o—

If from the start Govenor Stevenson had not assumed a position of such unmitigated nobility these contradictions and inconsistencies might be ascribed to the ordinary exigencies of practical politics. But in view of his caustic criticism of his opponent for exactly the same sort of thing that he himself is doing, it does seem that there is a considerable tinge of hypocrisy about the Stevenson performance and that he is neither as noble nor as candid as he asserts. The fact is the virtuous Adlai has always seemed a little too good to be true, and his apparently complete "surrender" to the President in the matter of the "mess" in Washington is rather convincing proof.

—o—

As to whether Mr. Truman's travel tirades are making or losing votes for Governor Stevenson it is impossible to say. Certainly he has had large and pleased crowds wherever he has spoken. Certainly, too, he has changed the campaign from what appeared to be a more than usually dignified debate into something with all the earmarks of a brawl. There are two views of the effect upon the electorate. One is that the coarse and undiluated partisanship of the President's speeches have disgusted many voters who might have gone for Stevenson but who resent what they regard as the degradation of the presidency and feel now that the only way to get rid of Trumanism, with its flagrant venality and corruption, is to elect Eisenhower and Nixon. The other view is that the American people really like the way Mr. Truman "dishes it out." They have no real taste for "appeals to reason," do not want their politics on a high plane, do not want the truth. Those who think this believe Mr. Truman is making votes for the Governor and that the latter is wise to come down off his high horse, ignore the facts, forget the "mess" in Washington and help Mr. Truman hit Ike with everything he can put his hands on.

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

By FULTON LEWIS, JR.

(Copyright, 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23. In a direct challenge to government authority, Communists in Los Angeles are using violence in an effort to halt hearings by the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

House probers have a few dozen ovie industry Reds on the hook ho are reluctant, as usual, to sit the witness chair. Their comdes in the city, on orders from rty functionaries, will do what ey can to keep them off the t seat.

The Communists decided on a chnique of violence to distract ngressional probers when refuge hind the Fifth Amendment, as a fusal to answer the $64 question, came tantamount to an admison of guilt in the public mind. o one has been seriously hurt as result of the Los Angeles demonrations so far, but the Red techque has created confusion and layed the orderly presentation evidence against those suspected devotion to Stalin. For the mont this is about as far as the mrades want to go.

The Communists have suffered rious setbacks in the past two ars as a result of Congressional vestigations and indictments by ederal Grand Juries. Party cupards are bare, with most of the ergency cash going to underound leaders, two of whom are tives from justice.

Hollywood has always been a sh money market for the Reds. rospective suckers are intimidated public exposure, so the party desperate in trying to halt the vestigations.

What the comrades are accomishing in Los Angeles, however, the exact opposite of what they tend to do. By engaging in fist hts outside the hearing rooms, taunting and threatening witesses, the Moscow mimics are roving, in miniature, what the vernment has been arguing all ng. That they will resort to rce and violence in an effort to srupt this form of government.

House investigators have estabshed a permanent West Coast inestigative office for the first time obably in the history of any Conressional committee. The current ollywood hearings have been in reparation for more than a year. ey are dipping into Red infiltraon in the less glamorous aspects the industry—the writers, prop n and other technicians. There e a number of actors and act resses, however, who are perspiring slightly in anticipation of things to come.

The Communist - hunting West Coast staff of the committee has not devoted all of its time to the movie industry. In fact, the current hearing is a wind-up of lengthy probes of Reds in movieland. The West Coast is still booming, with new and sensitive industries connected with the military springing up almost daily. There has been a vast expansion of labor union organization and a huge increase in public school buildings and attendance.

All of these are fertile fields for Red organizers. And the House Committee investigators are hopeful that periodic hearings on the Coast will halt the Communists who are trying to recoup their membership losses and gain footholds in the new industries.

The staff operates on the theory that it is better to expose what the Communists are trying to do than to expose what they have already done. Task forces of sub-committees composed of one or two Congressmen are to be available for public hearings in the area whenever investigators spot another Communist concentration.

Meanwhile, West Coast Reds keep looking over their shoulders at the Department of Justice in Washington. The Justice Department is confusing its friends as well as its Communist enemies. Action against Charlie Chaplin and the recent arrest of Earl Browder and his wife, all on charges several years old, stirred up jitters in even the most avid old time party functionaries. They never know what will be next, and many of them are in the country illegally or have lied time and again in denying party membership to obtain government jobs.

The arrest of Mrs. Browder was especially galling, since it once again reminded the Communists that they have few friends left in court. In 1944 the wife of the then President, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, personally interceded in securing Mrs. Browder an entry permit into this country although it was known that she was a Communist and ineligible for entry.

Now it's a Presidential election year and the politicians are totally disinterested in helping the comrades. Their only friends are in Moscow.

When the Knauss' returned to Bristol in 1949, he became associated with Rohm & Haas Co., and now works in that firm's production department.

The Knauss' apartment at 709 Radcliffe st., was the first home of their children, Judith, 15-months old and two-month-old, Hal, Jr. Both were born in Abington Hospital.

The television set in the Knauss home occupies many of their hours.

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

By FULTON LEWIS, JR.

(Copyright, 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23.

In a direct challenge to government authority, Communists in Los Angeles are using violence in an effort to halt hearings by the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

House probers have a few dozen ovie industry Reds on the hook ho are reluctant, as usual, to sit the witness chair. Their comdes in the city, on orders from rty functionaries, will do what ey can to keep them off the t seat.

The Communists decided on a chnique of violence to distract ngressional probers when refuge hind the Fifth Amendment, as a fusal to answer the $64 question, came tantamount to an admison of guilt in the public mind. one has been seriously hurt as result of the Los Angeles demonrations so far, but the Red techque has created confusion and layed the orderly presentation evidence against those suspected devotion to Stalin. For the mont this is about as far as the mrades want to go.

The Communists have suffered rious setbacks in the past two ars as a result of Congressional vestigations and indictments by deral Grand Juries. Party cupards are bare, with most of the ergency cash going to underound leaders, two of whom are gitives from justice.

Hollywood has always been a sh money market for the Reds. rospective suckers are intimidated public exposure, so the party desperate in trying to halt the vestigations.

What the comrades are accomshing in Los Angeles, however, the exact opposite of what they tend to do. By engaging in fist hts outside the hearing rooms, taunting and threatening witsses, the Moscow mimics are oving, in miniature, what the vernment has been arguing all ng. That they will resort to rce and violence in an effort to srupt this form of government.

House investigators have estabhed a permanent West Coast instigative office for the first time obably in the history of any Conressional committee. The current ollywood hearings have been in eparation for more than a year. ey are dipping into Red infiltraon in the less glamorous aspects the industry—the writers, prop n and other technicians. There e a number of actors and act resses, however, who are perspiring slightly in anticipation of things to come.

The Communist - hunting West Coast staff of the committee has not devoted all of its time to the movie industry. In fact, the current hearing is a wind-up of lengthy probes of Reds in movieland. The West Coast is still booming, with new and sensitive industries connected with the military springing up almost daily. There has been a vast expansion of labor union organization and a huge increase in public school buildings and attendance.

All of these are fertile fields for Red organizers. And the House Committee investigators are hopeful that periodic hearings on the Coast will halt the Communists who are trying to recoup their membership losses and gain footholds in the new industries.

The staff operates on the theory that it is better to expose what the Communists are trying to do than to expose what they have already done. Task forces of sub-committees composed of one or two Congressmen are to be available for public hearings in the area whenever investigators spot another Communist concentration.

Meanwhile, West Coast Reds keep looking over their shoulders at the Department of Justice in Washington. The Justice Department is confusing its friends as well as its Communist enemies. Action against Charlie Chaplin and the recent arrest of Earl Browder and his wife, all on charges several years old, stirred up jitters in even the most avid old time party functionaries. They never know what will be next, and many of them are in the country illegally or have lied time and again in denying party membership to obtain government jobs.

The arrest of Mrs. Browder was especially galling, since it once again reminded the Communists that they have few friends left in court. In 1944 the wife of the then President, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, personally interceded in securing Mrs. Browder an entry permit into this country although it was known that she was a Communist and ineligible for entry.

Now it's a Presidential election year and the politicians are totally disinterested in helping the comrades. Their only friends are in Moscow.

Guidance Instructor Is Speaker Before PTA

Stresses Importance of Helping Child to Live with Self, Others

NEWTOWN, Oct. 23—Mrs. Emily Gaither, guidance instructor here, addressed Council Rock Parent Teacher Ass'n Monday evening regarding guidance science. The two main objectives are to know and evaluate each child and to help each child to live with himself and to live with others. Mrs. Gaither also explained that the use of records play an important role in education from kindergarten up, health also plays its part, many mental tests are given, and achievement tests and personality ratings by teachers. "Council Rock has the finest testing system in this area. There are many parent-student conferences and parents are urged to come to the school at any time. Many County services are available, reading specialist, hearing, mental health clinic, eye specialist, all most helpful. Each teacher is guidance counselor to each child. The teachers of Council Rock are taking, through Temple University, a course in guidance dynamics," she stated. A guidance counseling meeting is called for Nov. 19th at the home of Mrs. Clarence Krewson to further discuss this subject.

A playlet entitled "The Ins and Outs" prepared for the Mental Health Institute on psychological problems, was presented by Charles Kerns, Elsa Allinson, Jane Berry, Joyce Neal, Robert Sheithauer and James Krewson.

"Poet and Peasant" was rendered on two pianos by Elva Leonhardt and "Betty" Gilbert, and a baton twirling exhibition was by Helen Jean Scully, "Betty" Sines, Evelyn Snyder and Sandra Hall, under direction of John Bacso.

The business meeting, conducted by Mrs. Walter Scully, president, showed 55 in attendance, and the award went to the 11th grade.

A membership of 96 was reported for this newly-formed PTA.

A discussion of elimination of the auditorium for the new high school building took place. The question was asked "What is the borrowing limit of the School Authority?" Principal Norman Kratz told the meeting the present plans for the new school which are now out for bids, include the auditorium, but if the cost runs too high it may be added later. The borrowing of the Authority depends on what each school district is able to pay back for the tuition of pupuils in his district.

Guidance Instructor Is Speaker Before PTA

Stresses Importance of Helping Child to Live with Self, Others

NEWTOWN, Oct. 23—Mrs. Emily Gaither, guidance instructor here, addressed Council Rock Parent Teacher Ass'n Monday evening regarding guidance science. The two main objectives are to know and evaluate each child and to help each child to live with himself and to live with others. Mrs. Gaither also explained that the use of records play an important role in education from kindergarten up, health also plays its part, many mental tests are given, and achievement tests and personality ratings by teachers. "Council Rock has the finest testing system in this area. There are many parent-student conferences and parents are urged to come to the school at any time. Many County services are available, reading specialist, hearing, mental health clinic, eye specialist, all most helpful. Each teacher is guidance counselor to each child. The teachers of Council Rock are taking, through Temple University, a course in guidance dynamics," she stated. A guidance counseling meeting is called for Nov. 19th at the home of Mrs. Clarence Krewson to further discuss this subject.

A playlet entitled "The Ins and Outs" prepared for the Mental Health Institute on psychological problems, was presented by Charles Kerns, Elsa Allinson, Jane Berry, Joyce Neal, Robert Sheithauer and James Krewson.

"Poet and Peasant" was rendered on two pianos by Elva Leonhardt and "Betty" Gilbert, and a baton twirling exhibition was by Helen Jean Scully, "Betty" Sines, Evelyn Snyder and Sandra Hall, under direction of John Bacso.

The business meeting, conducted by Mrs. Walter Scully, president, showed 55 in attendance, and the award went to the 11th grade.

A membership of 96 was reported for this newly-formed PTA.

A discussion of elimination of the auditorium for the new high school building took place. The question was asked "What is the borrowing limit of the School Authority?" Principal Norman Kratz told the meeting the present plans for the new school which are now out for bids, include the auditorium, but if the cost runs too high it may be added later. The borrowing of the Authority depends on what each school district is able to pay back for the tuition of pupuils in his district.

questions to ask yourself

...before buying a suit in today's market!

"Botany"* brand 500 TAILORED BY DAROFF

*Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.

THE FABRIC IS THE SOUL OF THE SUIT

Let's face it...because the fact isn't exactly a secret!

The price of suits today isn't low!

Most manufacturers and retailers don't like this prevailing state of affairs any more than you, the customer—but what with the high cost of materials and labor, they are powerless to remedy the situation.

That's why if you are to make your clothes-budget-money do double-duty today, you must ask yourself the following three questions:

Will the suit's fabric wear longer?

Will the tailoring stand-up?

Am I getting my "first choice"—the one I'll be happiest with?

the 3 answers:

We feel they all point to "Botany" Brand 500, Tailored by Daroff.

"BOTANY" BRAND 500 GIVES YOU FABRIC

that is not only woven to wear wonderfully season after season...but to retain its smooth, luxurious, good looks, its distinctive character, long after other suits of comparable price have lost their own. The richest, most resilient two-ply 100% virgin worsted to be found at the price.

"BOTANY" BRAND 500 GIVES YOU DAROFF TAILORING

so supple and smooth...so flawlessly correct...that the suit holds its shape longer...adds immeasurably to your comfort as it adds flattery to your figure.

"BOTANY" BRAND 500 GIVES YOU A COMPLETE SELECTION

Will Break Ground For New Hospital Here

Ceremony is Now Being Arranged for Saturday, November 2nd

Sunday, November 2, will be a very important day—a new day beginning a new era for all residents of Lower Bucks County. This is the thought expressed by Charles E. Hunter, chairman of the committee appointed to arrange and handle the ground-breaking ceremonies for the Lower Bucks County Hospital on that date.

Making his initial report of his committee's preliminary activity, Mr. Hunter stated, "We on this committee are charged with the responsibility to make this ceremony of ground breaking an event worthy of the occasion. For many years, many of the leading citizens of Lower Bucks County have been fully cognizant of the pressing need for a general community hospital to serve the people of this area. It is incumbent upon us, that steps be taken immediately, to provide the various services so vitally needed in our thriving and growing community. Physical erection work on the Lower Bucks County Hospital, a modern general hospital designed not only to serve the people in the strict sense of a hospital for the acutely ill, but an institution around which can be centered all health activities of the community, is at long last actually to begin."

"Invitations to those worthy dignitaries of prominence are already in the mails. Arrangements are in the making to have all the component factors so necessary to assure this ceremony the gala event it should be. This is the first hospital opportunity to publicly congregate all segments of the hospital together—the people, the organization and the community.

"There is much yet to be done. A program deserving of those making possible our hospital is in the process of being worked out."

A committee meeting is being called for this week, at which time various phases of the work shall be designated.

Assisting Mr. Hunter on this committee are Thomas Janes, Mrs. Reba C. Goebig, W. B. McCluer, and Frank Flatch.

the 3 questions to ask yourself

...before buying a suit in today's market!

"Botany"* brand 500 TAILORED BY DAROFF

*Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.

THE FABRIC IS THE SOUL OF THE SUIT

Let's face it...because the fact isn't exactly a secret!

The price of suits today isn't low!

Most manufacturers and retailers don't like this prevailing state of affairs any more than you, the customer—but what with the high cost of materials and labor, they are powerless to remedy the situation.

That's why if you are to make your clothes-budget-money do double duty today, you must ask yourself the following three questions:

Will the suit's fabric wear longer?

Will the tailoring stand-up?

Am I getting my "first choice"—the one I'll be happiest with?

the 3 answers:

We feel they all point to "Botany" Brand 500, Tailored by Daroff.

"BOTANY" BRAND 500 GIVES YOU FABRIC

that is not only woven to wear wonderfully season after season...but to retain its smooth, luxurious, good looks, its distinctive character, long after other suits of comparable price have lost their own. The richest, most resilient two-ply 100% virgin worsted to be found at the price.

"BOTANY" BRAND 500 GIVES YOU DAROFF TAILORING

so supple and smooth...so flawlessly correct...that the suit holds its shape longer...adds immeasurably to your comfort as it adds flattery to your figure.

"BOTANY" BRAND 500 GIVES YOU A COMPLETE SELECTION

...not just a few patterns and colors in your size, model and style that force you to select second-best, but a wide variety of suits and topcoats of every type...enabling you to get the garment that is your first choice.

We know you'll be happy with "Botany" Brand 500, Tailored by Daroff—a suit that will give you so much more mileage—and smileage—for your value-seeking dollar. Come in now.

LEARN FROM LABELS WHAT TYPE OF WOOL FABRIC YOU SECURE

By Frances Vannoy
(Home Economics Extension Representative)

Read the label to know which type of wool fabric you are getting for your family's warm clothing.

All wool products are required by the Wool Products Labeling Act to carry a label stating the fiber content of the fabric in terms of percentages. For example, "75 per cent new wool, 25 per cent reprocessed wool." This law establishes three classifications of wool fibers: wool, reprocessed wool, reused wool.

"Wool" must refer to fleece wool being used for the first time in the making of a wool product. It also may mean "virgin wool," "all wool," and "new wool."

"Reprocessed wool" is wool reclaimed from scraps and clips of woven and felted fabrics made of unused wool. These remnants are reduced to their fiber state and rewoven. Reprocessing does weaken the fibers, but they keep enough of the original qualities to give a serviceable product.

"Reused wool," also called shoddy, is salvaged from old wool which has actually been worn or used. This old wool is cleaned, shredded into fibers, and usually blended with stronger new wool.

If you want a wool fabric that will give long service and take hard wear, choose a worsted. Its rather smooth hard surface resists wear. Worsted fabrics hold a press and won't wrinkle easily. However, they have a tendency to develop a shine. Gabardine, sharkskin, cheviot, covert, and serge are worsted fabrics.

Woolens have a softer, more fuzzy appearance and are usually woven more loosely than worsteds. Woolens are made from woolen yarns, the yarns spun from shorter fibers. The nap may rub off in areas that get hard wear. Some woolens, such as tweeds, have qualities that enable them to live long lives. Good woolens feel soft but also are firm and springy.

Will Break Ground For New Hospital Here

Ceremony is Now Being Arranged for Saturday, November 2nd

Sunday, November 2, will be a very important day—a new day beginning a new era for all residents of Lower Bucks County. This is the thought expressed by Charles E. Hunter, chairman of the committee appointed to arrange and handle the ground-breaking ceremonies for the Lower Bucks County Hospital on that date.

Making his initial report of his committee's preliminary activity, Mr. Hunter stated, "We on this committee are charged with the responsibility to make this ceremony of ground breaking an event worthy of the occasion. For many years, many of the leading citizens of Lower Bucks County have been fully cognizant of the pressing need for a general community hospital to serve the people of this area. It is incumbent upon us, that steps be taken immediately, to provide the various services so vitally needed in our thriving and growing community. Physical erection work on the Lower Bucks County Hospital, a modern general hospital designed not only to serve the people in the strict sense of a hospital for the acutely ill, but an institution around which can be centered all health activities of the community, is at long last actually to begin."

"Invitations to those worthy dignitaries of prominence are already in the mails. Arrangements are in the making to have all the component factors so necessary to assure this ceremony the gala event it should be. This is the first hospital opportunity to publicly congregate all segments of the hospital together—the people, the organization and the community.

"There is much yet to be done. A program deserving of those making possible our hospital is in the process of being worked out."

A committee meeting is being called for this week, at which time various phases of the work shall be designated.

Assisting Mr. Hunter on this committee are Thomas Janes, Mrs. Reba C. Goebig, W. B. McCluer, and Frank Flatch.

LEARN FROM LABELS WHAT TYPE OF WOOL FABRIC YOU SECURE

By Frances Vannoy
(Home Economics Extension Representative)

Read the label to know which type of wool fabric you are getting for your family's warm clothing.

All wool products are required by the Wool Products Labeling Act to carry a label stating the fiber content of the fabric in terms of percentages. For example, "75 per cent new wool, 25 per cent reprocessed wool." This law establishes three classifications of wool fibers: wool, reprocessed wool, reused wool.

"Wool" must refer to fleece wool being used for the first time in the making of a wool product. It also may mean "virgin wool," "all wool," and "new wool."

"Reprocessed wool" is wool reclaimed from scraps and clips of woven and felted fabrics made of unused wool. These remnants are reduced to their fiber state and rewoven. Reprocessing does weaken the fibers, but they keep enough of the original qualities to give a serviceable product.

"Reused wool," also called shoddy, is salvaged from old wool which has actually been worn or used. This old wool is cleaned, shredded into fibers, and usually blended with stronger new wool.

If you want a wool fabric that will give long service and take hard wear, choose a worsted. Its rather smooth hard surface resists wear. Worsted fabrics hold a press and won't wrinkle easily. However, they have a tendency to develop a shine. Gabardine, sharkskin, cheviot, covert, and serge are worsted fabrics.

Woolens have a softer, more fuzzy appearance and are usually woven more loosely than worsteds. Woolens are made from woolen yarns, the yarns spun from shorter fibers. The nap may rub off in areas that get hard wear. Some woolens, such as tweeds, have qualities that enable them to live long lives. Good woolens feel soft but also are firm and springy.

INSPECTION

TARLAC, P. I. — (INS) — The mayor of Tarlac, while making a surprise inspection of police posts, discovered that 11 members of his police force either deserted their posts or slept while on guard duty. He suspended all of them.
